BIDDING (PHONE/E-MAIL/INTERNET)

We will accept bids via mail, e-mail (all e-mail bids must be received by 9:00 pm Eastern Time Thursday the week the auction ends. All bidders must be registered by 9:00 pm Eastern Time by Thursday, the same week the auction you want to bid on begins, for Adventure House to accept your bid. To place an internet bid, go to www.adventurehouse.com/ah_auctions. You may view items, check current bids, place items on watch and place bids at the auction site. The site will allow you to browse each item, view image(s) of each item and also place bids.

BIDDING INCREMENTS

The first bid, regardless of method of acceptance, that matches or exceeds the opening bid becomes the high bid. Any subsequent high bids must exceed the high bid by at least 10%. Note that pre-placed MAX BIDS may ultimately exceed the next high bid by less than 10%. Bids are viewable online throughout the bid process, as soon as the items are listed as available for auction.

TERMS OF SALE

1. Buyer Premium for each auction is 13%, if paying by credit card or Paypal. A winning bid of $100 will be billed $113, which includes the 13% buyer premium if paying by Paypal or Credit Card. If paying by check, your Buyer Premium will be 10%. All checks or money orders must be drawn on a US Bank.
2. All items are sold to the highest bidder, as long as reserve is met.
3. Bidder accepts the terms and conditions of sale stated as follows when placing a bid.
4. Each item has an opening bid and the first person to match or exceed that amount will be designated as the high bidder. The item will be sold to the high bidder unless another bidder exceeds the high bid with an increment bid of 10% or higher. Note that pre-placed Max Bids may ultimately exceed the required bid by less than 10%. Bids are viewable online throughout the bid process, as soon as the items are listed as available for auction.
5. Tie bids will be decided by the first bid received.
6. RESERVES. Adventure House Auctions doesn't post our reserve amount. Please note that reserves are not the norm for our auctions. The reserve is often the lowest estimated value of the lot.
7. Winning bidder will pay winning bid amount, plus shipping/handling, buyers premium, and insurance (if requested). Adventure House will ship items via FedEx Ground, FedEx Air and the United States Postal Service. Adventure House will declare the full value of each package going to a winning bidder residing outside of the United States.
8. All winning bidders living within the State of Maryland will pay 6% sales tax, unless the winning bidder provides a tax re-sale number.
9. We will not accept a phone/email or mail bid request to “top all other bidders.” We will however, be happy to accept and execute a high bid request. We will not be held responsible or liable for failing to execute a manual bidder's high bid. Adventure House may at our discretion re-open the bidding on a specific item.
10. All bidders must be registered with Adventure House. Registration includes name, address, phone number, and an email address. If the winning bidder prefers to pay by check, money order or by Paypal, items will not be shipped until payment is received.
11. Please review the auction table regarding the start and end time for each auction. Internet bidding is occurring at the same time and high bids will be updated immediately. The auctions will have a rolling close with each lot closing according to the auction table. If you have any questions regarding the items or lots, please don't hesitate to call up to the day prior to the auction opening.
12. Cancelled bids. Adventure House will not accept any cancelled bids the day of the auction. If you need to cancel your bid, you must do so by 9:00 pm Eastern Time the day before the action is scheduled to close.
13. All winning bidders must pay for their items within 14 days. Adventure House will not assume responsibility for errors or omissions in the bid amount or item numbers made by the bidder. Please check your bids for accuracy prior to the final day. An error by Adventure House in description, condition or inability to ship an item are the only cause for a refund. Request for a refund must be made within 5 days of receiving the item.
14. All sales are final. Personal checks from a first time buyer may require a two week hold until the check clears the bank.
15. Errors and omissions. Although we have made every effort to accurately describe each lot, if you believe there is an error or omission, please contact us and we will endeavor to change it on the auction site. If for any reason the error or omission cannot be corrected, we reserve the right to withdraw the lot and relist it at a later time.

Yes, this is my pulp collection in this auction catalog. No, this doesn’t mean I’m retiring! So here I sit with over 3300 pulps and a new auction site to distribute my lifelong collection of magazines.

How did this collection start? Simply, I blame Bantam Books and my mother. It was mid to late 60’s and I was a nascent comic collector, picking up Spider-Man, Fantastic Four and all the Marvel titles I could afford. Yet it was a fateful day, sometime in 1968 when walking down the aisles of Lowen’s in Bethesda Maryland, a toy store with a large paperback selection in row after row of racks... looking for another comic book novelization of my favorite Marvel characters when I spied a remarkable cover painted by James Bama, and thereby introducing me to DOC SAVAGE. Which Doc was first for me? Don’t remember, although I can tell you that my comic collection suffered as I was spending all my money on Doc paperbacks. It was nearly a weekly routine to walk down the railroad tracks near my house to downtown Bethesda to purchase a new book. I kept purchasing and reading these paperbacks...even after being mocked by a clerk when I bought my copy of LAND OF THE LONG JUJU, and the jerk behind the counter made fun of the title, and by extension, me. It was while reading one of those wonderful paperback reprints in my favorite swiveling rocker in the living room, that my mom caught sight of the title. “Doc Savage?” she said. “I used to read him when I was a young girl.” Now she was born in 1918, and would have been slightly older than me when she read her first Doc. But she wouldn’t leave it there. “I think my copies are somewhere in the attic!”

I leapt up from my seat...first making sure I placed my book mark on the last page I had read...then as carefully as I could dropped the book back into the seat I had just ejected myself from and took the stairs two at a time to the top floor of our home. My parents had cut a larger opening in the ceiling, with a pull down spring loaded hatch that would expose a folding ladder tucked on the inside. I yanked that ladder down, and climbed up with breathless anticipation. Lights were mounted on the peak of the attic at about 10 foot intervals. I yanked the chain on the closest one and started there. I found all sorts of wonderful items, but not a single copy of DOC SAVAGE MAGAZINE could be found. My mother had started me on a fruitless search of our attic, but a lifelong search for pulp magazines in general.

The first time I had actually laid my eyes on a real pulp magazine was a short time later when I was granted permission to leave a Middle School field trip to some unknown downtown Washington DC landmark and divert over to the Library of Congress. I wondered in without so much as any real identification, nor idea of how to go about trying to find their collection of pulps. In the main reading room, I asked a librarian how do I see their bound volumes of pulp magazines? He asked me if I had any sort of permission letter from a teacher or principal for this side trip? I didn’t know that you couldn’t walk in and request to see items, you had to have a real purpose. He must have seen my reaction that as I was devastated that I might not be able to fulfill my quest, because he took pity and told me to follow him. I did so into the bowels of the main reading room, and then walked down shelf after shelf of bound pulps. It took what felt like hours, although I’m certain it was mere minutes to locate the shelf where hundreds of bound pulp magazine volumes were stored. He asked, what was I interested in, and we selected a half dozen bound copies of DOC SAVAGE MAGAZINE, starting with issue #1. He then escorted me back up the main reading room and he plopped me down at a desk. It was heaven! I poured over each issue...each page...each illustration, trying to understand why there was such a difference between Bama’s Doc, and Baumhofer and Orban’s Doc. Because of the delay in getting permission to receive my baptism in pulp, I only had an hour to get my fill and then rejoin the rest of the school group. But what an hour it was!

The search was on. But where to look? I was still buying comics, and I sent away for catalogs from those dealers that had advertised in the back pages of those Silver Age books. Although the catalogs kept coming in, I couldn't pull the trigger on what I thought was too high a price to pay for an unseen book. There was still the few comic shows I attended in the early 70’s, but those left me unfilled in regards to pulps. That is until I attended a show at the University of Maryland’s Student Union. Right before my eyes at Joe Goggin’s tables were several boxes of pulps, and especially Doc Savage. So with my limited funds, I picked out a copy of THE ANNIHILIST. Fairly decent condition, outside of a piece out of the corner of the cover. I treasured it, but what I didn’t understand then, but do now, the dreaded pulp mite had just infected me. I had breathed in that terrible mite, and as it burrowed into my brain, it made me want to increase my collection and thereby my pulp mite load of infection. Woe to the collector who doesn’t give in to it’s mighty power of persuasion.

I was off and running. A single pulp turned into a dozen, which then turned into hundreds, which then turned into thousands, my lifelong pulp journey has seen something in the realm of 100,000 pulps go through my hands. More than just the pulp magazines, I made many good and fast friends. All infected with the same pulp mite as me.

Although my mother and I shared a bond with Doc Savage, we had more than Doc in common. She shared with me a thirst for the past. We had hundreds of magazines and books on all sorts of topics. One topic in particular was the Civil War. Family trips were made to Williamsburg and Civil War battlefields like Manassas, Gettysburg, Antietam and Petersburg. In one of the National Geographic magazines, I was fascinated by a piece of art that depicted the aftermath of the Union troops trying to break through the Confederate defenses at Petersburg by igniting tons of TNT underground. The resulting explosion created a crater and the Union troops rushed in to find that they couldn’t climb the steep crater wall. The art was a piece of near photo realistic depiction of the Union troops deadly dilemma. Several decades pass and my pulp interests have expanded beyond Doc. Just as Bama drew me in because of his amazing art, pulp covers and their artists have peaked my interest. Especially those early covers of DETECTIVE TALES, DIME MYSTERY MAGAZINE and DIME DETECTIVE MAGAZINE. The art was superior to so many other magazines of the same period and I had to find as many examples of those pulps with Tom Lovell as the cover artist. His compositions were dynamic and although I didn't realize it until later, those covers of DETECTIVE TALES and my favorite piece of Civil War art were created by the same artist.

Collectors have different reasons for collecting. Irregardless of those pulp mites, collectors accumulate their magazines because they like the artwork, the author, the genre, even the smell! Yes Walker, I'm talking about you! For me, I found a fascination with a specific publisher. His name was Harold Hersey, and his various attempts at editing and publishing spanned several decades. With his start as an editor for Street & Smith's THRILL BOOK, to his work as publisher at Magazine Publishers and his own Good Story Magazine Company, Hersey blazed a minor trail for others to follow. While he worked for a short time with Street & Smith, he found employ with two other mainstream publishers, William Clayton and Bernarr MacFadden. His bizarre, short run titles, sparked a passion to locate all of his magazines. Alas, I'm a good number short. Time for someone else to pick up the task!

My mother, who started me off on this wonderful spree, never understood my pulp mania. One weekend, my mother came to my video/book store in Crofton, Maryland, and while there I showed her a copy of the very first Doc pulp, THE MAN OF BRONZE. I had just acquired the copy in a trade and was getting ready to put it into a catalog. She asked me how much was I going to sell it for, and whatever the price was, she shook her head and said that there was no way I could make a living doing this.

As the number of magazines in my basement seemingly doubles every five years or so, it's time to move my collection to make more room. My kids are grown. My two oldest have graduated college, with my third now a sophomore. Again...am I retiring? Nope! It just seems like the right time to allow others to perhaps find something in my collection that will help fill theirs.
